Curtail paperwork and connect the dots across your institution

Ellucian Workflow streamlines business process management to drive efficiencies.

Institutions strive to improve their business process management, but are often hindered by the complexity of legacy solutions. Users generally rely on technical teams to code and create processes that are tightly tied to enterprise resource planning (ERP) applications, resulting in the potential for siloed workflows. These challenges tax designers and detract from the end-user experience.

Ellucian Workflow powered by Ellucian Ethos is a cloud-based business process management (BPM) and workflow solution that lets you define and execute business rules outside the application. The drag-and-drop interface opens up a new world to create robust, standalone forms and streamline processes, all without writing a single line of code.

Enjoy simplicity and efficiency

Ellucian Workflow is designed specifically to address the unique needs of higher education through connectivity with Ellucian Ethos Integration via the Ethos Data Model. The solution empowers users with a web-based forms designer that's more functional, easier to use and less code-driven than previous options. Ellucian Workflow's ease of use dynamically changes how you approach workflows at an institution and the processes that drive them.

Ellucian Workflow helps you:

- Reduce work by automating duplicative processes

- Boost efficiency of approval processes and optimise ways to route and execute business management processes

- Reduce the total cost of ownership in time and money to develop custom workflows and solutions

Quickly configure workflows

Ellucian Workflow helps institutions manage the flow of data across an institution and simplify routine, repetitive tasks. Whether in finance, registration, the bursar's office, or any other department, all users can benefit from the solution's comprehensive functionality.

The solution features an intuitive interface and a dynamic forms designer that lets users build and map workflow processes without coding. Compared to traditional BPM tools, users can design, develop, and deploy forms more easily, readily and effectively than ever before.

With support for the Business Process Model 2.0 specification, developers and power users can build a process model by dragging and dropping key elements onto the process map. Users can access these workflow forms via a browser, tablet, or mobile device. Offering dozens of pre-built workflows that are domain specific to higher education, Ellucian Workflow can save users significant time and effort.

Ellucian Workflow also enables users to create customised workflows tailored to their respective institutional needs. For instance, they can link, route, email, or approve specific tasks as well as appoint proxy reviewers to stand in if someone is ill or on holiday.
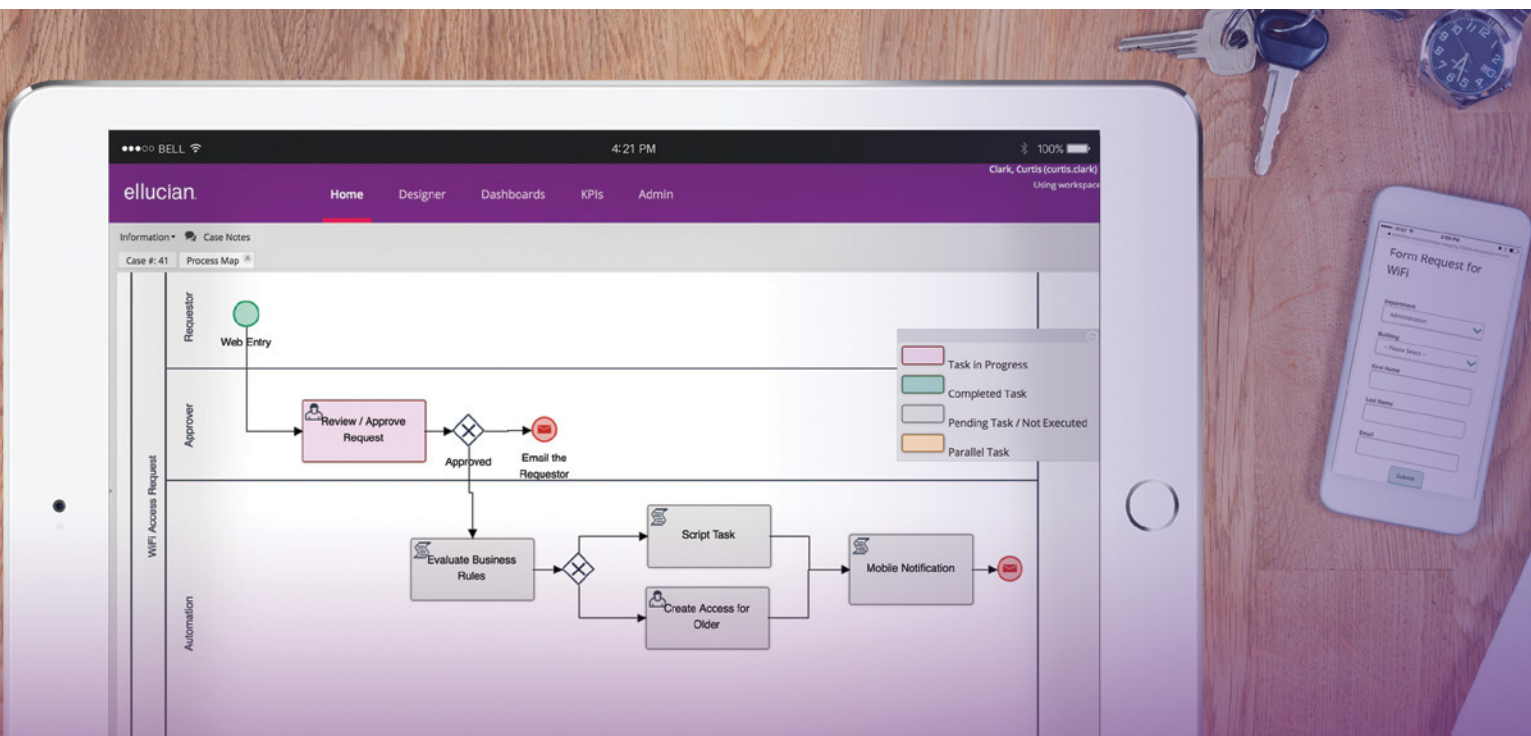

Ease the burden on IT

Ellucian partnered with global software leader ProcessMaker to craft a business process management tool that's purpose-built for higher education. Running on Amazon Web Services, the cloud solution strengthens security, reduces risk and improves disaster recovery. Ellucian Workflow's Software-as-a-Service model frees your IT staff from having to maintain the infrastructure required for a traditional BPM solution.

Best of all, Ellucian Workflow makes it possible for users to create their own forms without relying on the IT department to create, run and manage workflows. This reduces developmental time, eases the IT and administrative burden and promotes more efficient use of resources.

Harness the power of Ellucian Ethos

Ellucian Workflow provides seamless integration with Ellucian Ethos and Ellucian ERP solutions, offering single sign-on capabilities to streamline application management. Meanwhile, API-driven workflows enable institutions to run standalone workflows in third-party applications, including ERPs, customer relationship management, business intelligence and document-management systems.

By enabling approvals on the go and optimising data transfer from system to system, Ellucian Workflow provides the state-of-the art workflow and BPM solutions to solve your institution's challenges.
